Memo to Rep. Oren Harris

In the Congress Rep. Carl Vinson of Georgia has introduced House Resolution 5781 which proposes that companies having defense contracts be limited to a profit of 7% on defense work. Which is common sense. But the resolution goes further. It names 10 items of expense which can't be used in computing costs—and one of these items is advertising.

Tydings Urges MacArthur Aid

Senator Says Victory in War Requires a Risk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Tydings (Dem. Md.) proposed in the Senate Friday that the United States "take a chance" on sending a heavily escorted convoy of troops to reinforce the Americans fighting in the Philippine islands or the British fighting in Singapore.

Asserting there was "not enough courage in the administration," Tydings declared Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential nominee,

It's the Law
Americans favor law and order. Step up to the bar and tell the judge what you know about these questions on law and courts.

1. What federal court does the Constitution specifically provide for?

2. Into what two general divisions does law fall?

3. Everyone has heard of the writ of habeas corpus. What are the functions of a writ of mandamus and writ of prohibition?

4. Upon what code of law is most American law founded?

5. Can all federal cases be appealed to the United States supreme court?

Registration of Men 20 to 45 on Monday

Gen. E. L. Compere Outlines Procedure for All Arkansas Counties

With local boards throughout the State of Arkansas reporting all in readiness for the registration Monday of all unregistered men between the military ages of 20 to 45 years, Brig. Gen. E. L. Compere, State Director of Selective Service, Saturday pointed out that there are only three main requirements for this registration.

The Requirements

Director Compere summarized these major requirements thus:

(1) Every male citizen and every male alien residing in Arkansas other than persons excepted by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, is required to present himself for and submit to registration on February 16, 1942, if he has not registered previously and if

(a) such person has attained the twentieth anniversary of the day of his birth on or before December 31, 1941, and has not attained the forty-fifth anniversary of the day of his birth on or before February 16, 1942.

(b) If any person is in doubt as to whether or not he should register, he should consult the proper registration officials and register if they deem it advisable.

(2) Registration should be made at a designated registration place of the local board area in which the registrant has his permanent home, or in which he may happen to be between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. This registration place may be the office of the local board having jurisdiction in the area, or other public place properly designated by that local board.

(3) While anyone who is unavoidably away from his home on February 16 may register at the registration place most convenient on that day, all registrants are urged to make every effort to register with their own local boards to avoid possible confusion in the future. Any person who must register away from home also is warned to carefully specify his home address so that his registration card may be forwarded promptly to his own local board and to ensure that he will be included among its registrants and in its quotas if he is found to be qualified for military service.

(b) In certain industrial centers where there are factories and shops employing substantial numbers of workmen, local boards have been authorized to arrange for registering such workers within the establishments.

(c) Special registrars also will be provided to register men who cannot appear at a designated registration place because of illness or other incapacity. It is incumbent upon these men to advise a registrar in their local board area of their inability to appear at a registration place.

(b) Every man subject to registration

Farm Price of Eggs 18 to 20c

Farm Bureau Protests Sharp Drop in Price

Egg prices to Hempstead county farmers should be such that a fair return can be realized above feed, housing and other costs if production is to be kept on the increase to meet government requests was the opinion of farm leaders in attendance at the Hempstead County Farm Bureau meeting Friday. According to T. A. Cornelius, president of the Local Bureau, many farmers have improved their feeding and housing and increased the size of their flocks to contribute the most possible to the war production program which last years reward a guarantee of 85 per cent of parity for quality eggs.

The group sent the following information to the State Farm Bureau Federation:

"The Hempstead County Farm Bureau Federation in session Friday requests unanimously that the Arkansas and the American Farm Bureau Federation investigate and instigate measures that will correct the low price being paid our farmers for eggs. To the farm prices is 18c to 20c per dozen in the county with many normal purchasers of eggs refusing to buy at any price.

Hempstead county has 2000 or more small farmers producing a surplus of eggs. Feed, housing and other essential costs are at the present above the egg price and are rising continuously. These egg producing farmers have increased their flocks and improved their feeding methods with the understanding that a fair price would be received for the eggs which are presumably needed for proper feeding of our people engaged in National Defense and in feeding our allies.

We urge your immediate support to the egg price. Advise us immediately of any local steps that might be taken to be of assistance."

Heaven Help Son If This Story Is True

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., (AP)—The elderly man leaped from the path of a speeding automobile and jotted down the tag number. Still scratching, he went to the Age-Herald police reporter and asked him to look up the owner's name.

"Are you sure?" he asked. "Yes," said the reporter. "I double-checked it."

"Well," said the man, "I either made a mistake, or my son is going to get a man-sized licking when I get home."

Double-Header Attack Closing in on Singapore

British Fighting Stubbornly Against 'Nut Cracker' Strategy

LONDON (AP)—Hard pressed but fighting back stubbornly British imperial defense forces still held the city of Singapore Saturday against a nut-cracker attack by Japanese forces closing in from the northwest as well as the northeast.

The defenders are 'disputing every enemy attempt to advance farther toward the heart of Singapore town,' a communique declared. It discussed that in addition to Japanese pressure from the race course, water reservoir, and rail line section northwest of the city, the Japanese have driven into the Paya Lebar area. Paya Lebar village is three miles from the outskirts of Singapore on the road northeast to Serangoon.

The Japanese thrust from the northwest already had reached Tanglin, little more than two miles west of the center of the city.

The communique said the Japanese were maintaining their pressure and "keeping the lion city" under continual bombing and shelling.

"During yesterday afternoon," the war report said, "enemy attacks developed in the Paya Lebar area and in the west. Both were in considerable strength."

"Today the enemy has maintained his pressure, supporting attacks with a number of high-level bombing raids by large formations of aircraft, by continual shelling by his artillery, and by low dive-bombing attacks."

"His artillery has also shelled the town intermittently throughout the night and this morning."

"Our troops—British, Australian, Indian and Malayan—are disputing every enemy attempt to advance farther toward the heart of Singapore town."

Laura Ingalls Found Guilty

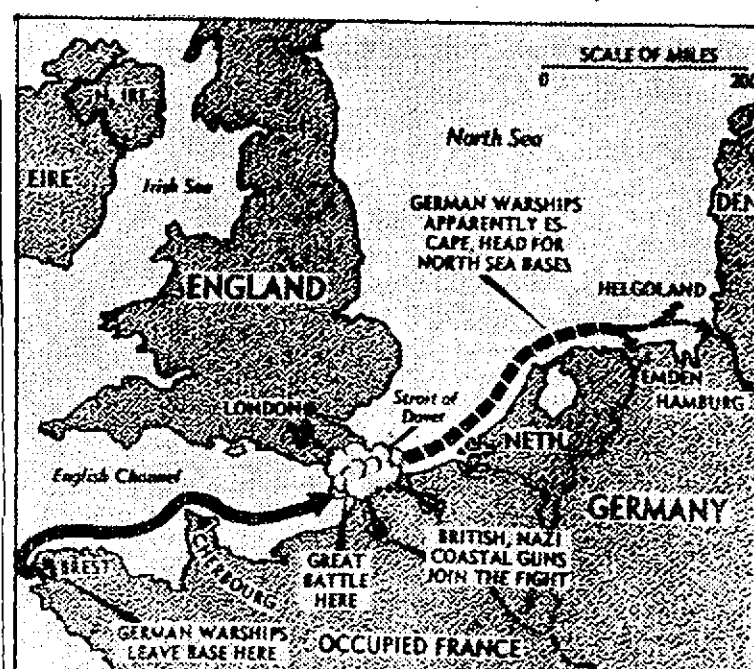

Convicted of Accepting Pay as German Agent Here

WASHINGTON (AP)—Laura Ingalls, speed flier and self-styled "international Mata Hari," was convicted Friday on a charge she acted as a paid agent of Germany without registering with the State Department. Maximum penalty is two years in prison and a $1,000 fine. Sentencing is not expected for several days. She was jailed.

Miss Ingalls, who admitted accepting money from a German diplomat while she was promoting American neutrality last year, glared angrily at each juror intoned "guilty."

The prosecution pictured her as an "enemy" of the country who accepted $300 a month from the German embassy to sow dissunity. It produced witnesses to show she exulted in German victories, opposed lease-lend aid and British "propaganda."

6 Ships Sunk, U-Boats Claim

Germans Report Successes in Atlantic, Mediterranean

BERLIN (AP)—Two naval vessels and four merchant ships have been sunk and four additional surface craft severely damaged by German U-boats and aerial attacks in the Atlantic and Mediterranean, a German communique claimed Saturday.

The high command said one corvette and three merchantmen, totaling 26,000 tons, went down in the Atlantic under U-boat attacks. Four more were damaged, it added.

During plane assaults on a convoy near Tobruk, in the Mediterranean, the communique said, one destroyer and one 10,000-ton transport were so heavily attacked that "they can be considered lost."

Direct hits were scored on two naval and two merchant ships, the high command declared.

Guns Open Up on MacArthur

Japanese Break Two-Day Lull on Philippine Front

WASHINGTON (AP)—Heavy artillery on the Bataan peninsula in the Philippines and resumption of Japanese firing on the Corregidor fortifications were reported Saturday by the War Department.

On the Bataan fighting front, the communique said, the enemy was entrenching in some sections. Meanwhile, Japanese warplanes were active.

The siege guns, again firing after a two-day lull, inflicted no material damage, it was said.

British Troops Transferred to Help the Dutch

Arena of Pacific War Swinging Away From Doomed Singapore

By the Associated Press

Japanese parachute troops struck into southern Sumatra Saturday in a menacing thrust toward Java, heart of the rich Dutch East Indies, while in the siege of Singapore Japanese troops reported they had captured the 150-million-dollar Seletar naval base on Singapore island.

Simultaneously an Australian broadcast reported Australian and other British imperial troops landed at Batavia and "are taking up positions for the defense of Java."

It seemed clear that with Singapore apparently doomed the battle of the Indies was now fast developing into the main struggle of the Far Pacific theater.

Dispatches from Batavia, capital of Java, said Japanese parachutists dropped from the skies near Palembang and swiftly launched a big-scale attack on that vital Sumatra oil center, only 250 miles from Batavia.

Uncertain About Oil

There was no immediate indication whether the sky troops had seized oil fields in the region before the Dutch could destroy them, or whether an attempt would be made to defend the field now that Allied reinforcements have arrived in the Indies.

An NEI communique said Dutch defense forces were putting up furious resistance and killing the airborne Japanese troops by the dozens. More than 100 Japanese transport planes guarded by fighters opened the attack, the communique said.

Palembang itself is not threatened and there are no indications that parachutists dropped close to or entered the town. Dutch headquarters said, but they acknowledged the airborne invaders dropped at three places in the Palembang area.

"Our troops have done excellent work and it may be assumed that the situation is not unfavorable." A special bulletin at 6 p. m., Java time, indicated the fight was still going on.

First Land Invasion
It was the first land invasion of the 1,000-mile long island of Sumatra which stretches from a point off the central Malay coast 150 miles north of Singapore to the westernmost tip of Java.

With the thrust into lower Sumatra the Japanese now had three gun-nuzzles pointed directly at the heart of the Indies on an arc extending through Bandjermasin in southern Borneo to Macassar, chief port in southern Celebes island.

The Dutch command acknowledged unofficial reports that Japanese had captured Bandjermasin, only 300 miles north of the big NEI naval base at Soerabaja, Java.

Fighting continued around Macassar but the Dutch defenders had put it to the torch and that "the enemy will not find anything of use to him" there.

Meanwhile the Mikado's sea-roving armies were apparently on the move again as the Melbourne (Australia) radio reported that a number of Japanese warships and supply vessels had been sighted Friday night off the coast of Australian-mandated New Britain island just east of New Guinea. A southward thrust from New Britain might be aimed at Cape York on the northernmost tip of the Australian mainland, or through the Torres Strait toward Timor and Java, in the Dutch East Indies archipelago.

 - Law falls into civil and criminal divisions.
 - A writ of mandamus orders someone, usually an official, to perform a specific act. A writ of prohibition orders a person, also usually an official, not to do something.
 - Most American law is founded upon English common law. The laws of Louisiana, however, are based on the Code Napoleon.
 - Some federal cases can be appealed only to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

woman, whose morals will be watched and who will be gossiped about just as much as any woman in civilian life. They have found that out in England where the government has had to start a campaign of counter-propaganda to offset the vicious gossip that is going the rounds about the women in uniform—who my dear, aren't any better than they should be, if you know what I mean.

The stories have spread fast and furiously, and the women who are hardest hit by talk are those who move up in the ranks. Just as in this country the business woman or actress who has phenomenal success is always a target for gossip—so in Great Britain is the "lady soldier" who gets a promotion or a good job. It's just fresh evidence of the fact that, war or no war, women keep right on being women, jealous cats if one steps out of the ranks to win some personal glory for herself.

And it's safe to bet that if women are taken into the army here, as has already been proposed, the same thing will happen.

Wagging Tongues Rarely Cease
Over their bridge tables and over their knitting the women who aren't in uniform will spread gossip about those who are.

They'll do it because women instinctively hate to see women try anything new (look how the home-bodies turn up their noses at working women) and because gossip is a form of excitement to women.

It's too much to expect of the sex that they could send some of their women into the armed forces and that the rest would sit back and cheer them on.

gistered, a man knows that he is part of the picture. He doesn't know exactly where or when he will be fitted in, but he feels and knows that he has a place.

But what of younger men, those say between 17 and 19? It is true that in certain branches of the service and under certain circumstances, they can enlist voluntarily. But such a youth is pretty likely to be badly torn between conflicting emotions. He wants to enlist, yes. But he is told on the other hand, "Stay in school or college, prepare yourself for specialized service." Maybe he tries to get a job. But employers, naturally enough, are chary of hiring an untrained young man who, as soon as he begins to learn how to do his job, may be called into military service.

So millions of youths between 17 and 20 are floating in a sea of uncertainty, unable to concentrate on work or study, unable to feel that they really "fit in."

What can be done about it? The National Education Association has an idea. It suggests creation of a Selective Service Reserve, in which young men who have passed their 17th but istration who is an inmate of an asylum, jail, penitentiary, reformatory, or similar institution, on February 16 is required to register on the day he leaves the institution.

(3) Registrants must answer all questions asked by the registrar for notation on the registration card. It is important that the registrant describe his place of residence in detail as well as give full particulars as to the address at which he will be sure to receive mail or other communications.

Choice of Residence

(a) A registrant who has more than one place of residence may choose which one he wants recorded as his place of residence for he thus will designate the local board which always will have jurisdiction over him. No transfer of address may be recorded, however, and Selective Service Regulations also prohibit any interference or dictation by a registrar when a registrant having more than one place of residence is making his choice between them.

(b) A registrant who lives on an RFD route which goes through two States is required to indicate the location of his residence, rather than his mailing address.

While it is important that registration be conducted as speedily as possible, the Director said, every registrant will be given ample time to respond properly to the questions on the registration card.

After the registrant has answered all questions and signed his name to the registration card, he will be given a registration certificate signed by the registrar. This certificate must be in the personal possession of the registrant at all times. Failure to possess this certificate, or to show it to authorized persons constitutes a violation of Selective Service Regulations and is considered prima facie evidence if failure to register.

No questionnaires will be given registrants when they register, the Director emphasized, nor will they be required at that time to undergo any physical examination. A questionnaire is sent to each registrant when his order number has been determined by a lottery and is reached by his local board. Physical examination is made only after a registrant's local board has passed on his general qualifications and availability and has determined that he should not be deferred from military service for any reason other than possible physical disability.

ought to have a high place in the government's war councils.

"Unless we are ready to take a chance—and you can't win battles if you are not willing to take a chance—we are not worthy of defending this democracy," Tydings declared.

"I would be selfish enough to say that where the American flag flies and where American troops are de-not yet reached their 20th birthday might be enrolled with the understanding that they should not be called for military duty until the present age limit.

In the meantime they would be at the disposal of the government for pre-training of whatever sort is determined to be most valuable to them and to the government. Those who are studying, especially those studying subjects of scientific, technical, or professional value, might be simply "assigned" to that duty. Farm labor and harvest field help, which may be badly needed this fall, could be drawn from this pool.

In the meantime, they would feel that they have a place; that their services are really helpful and available for whatever work is needed, whether it be in classroom, harvest field, or civilian defense.

The worst feeling a person can have in wartime is that of having no place or part in the great national effort. Such a plan for the orderly utilization of the energies of youth, just as we now order the energies of more mature men, is well worth consideration.

KINGS ROW

By HENRY BELLAMANN

THE STORY: Smalltown Kings Row schoolteacher, are orphaned. Parris, Mitchell, 12, who adores his French grandmother, Madame von Elin, pretty Renee, daughter of von Elin, who is a mystery. "Drake" McHugh, beautiful Cassandra Tower, whose reclusive doctor father has a mysterious "boy" Louise Gordon, daughter of a lawyer. Other characters: lawyer Charles Wellington, banker Curley, editor Mike Jackson. Cassandra plans birthday party, social power Mrs. Gordon decides Louise shall have one same day, Cassie's party a failure. Her father withdraws her from school.

A LAZY SUNDAY

CHAPTER IV

AFTER what seemed an interminable spring season, vacation came at last. Parris and Renee ran nearly all the way home.

He dashed about the orchards like something mad, gathering the low branches into his arms and making loud inhalations as if he tried to breathe them into himself.

"Aren't they beautiful, Renee? Prettier'n last year."

They came presently upon a small green pond with spruces and cedars planted in a wide circle about it. The sharp points of the young trees were perfectly mirrored on the still surface.

"Ooh, looky—our pond! We ain't been here since last summer, have we?" Renee ran ahead.

Parris walked slowly forward, watching her bright hair as she flung the braids back over her shoulders and sat on the grassy bank with hands clasped about her knees. He decided she was a very pretty girl—prettier than anybody—prettier, even, than Cassandra Tower.

"You're my best friend, Renee," he said impulsively.

"Am I? Honestly?"

"Yes, you are. I like you better'n anybody."

"I like you best of anybody—except," of course, Papa and Mama," she said contentedly.

"Renee?" Parris stumbled on the name. "This will always be our secret place, won't it?"

"Mmm."

PARRIS watched his grandmother rather anxiously on Sunday mornings. If she planned to go to church she always gave orders at breakfast for the surrey. Madame von Elin put down her coffee cup and folded her napkin. "Anna, tell Uncle Henry to have the carriage ready at half-past 10."

He sighed. It would be fun to call Renee and build a dam in the little creek.

Madame came down, crackling in her black taffeta dress. She was wearing her onyx-and-dia-

No Vest Now for the Chest

War Makes Changes in Male Modes of America

By PAUL J. C. FRIEDLANDER
AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK — Here we go, boys, for a quick brush off of male modes of the moment, a look at what you will and won't wear if you have enough left over after Mar. 15 to get yourself a bright new spring outfit.

You won't wear a vest, at least, not one that matches your coat and pants, according to the clothing industry leaders at the 1942 spring style clinic of the New York Retail Men's Wear Council.

Watch Your Gravity

And you want to be sure to watch your center of gravity because the tailor is going to lower it for you when your back is turned. The boys have come up with a snazzy new number they call the "low slung lounge" which, they claim, will "create a much longer torso line" without benefit of diet or corseting.

The gents who paraded in aluminum sharkskin, coral socks, black shoes and "the lipstick touch" in their brilliant foulard ties—pivoting gracefully down the Minsky-like runway in the Waldorf-Astoria's grand ballroom—promised to brighten the masculine future.

Man Without a Vest

This vest business is really serious. There also has been much talk by the International Association of Designers of taking the cuffs off men's pants. That may come with the fall line.

The spring styles, however, come fully equipped with cuffs although there may be fewer pleated pockets. To save valuable wool wherever possible, there will be only two-piece suits because, Ralph Schneider, clinic conductor, patriotically asks which is more important: "Should civilians go without vests or fighting men go without uniforms? Taking the vest out of the suit will save a lot of important wool."

It also raises the problem of finding room in just a coat and a pair of pants for all the odds and ends a man normally carries in his four vest pockets. The merchants' answer to that is to sell you out of their present supply of odd vests, knitted pull-overs and cotton vests, a chest protector just as loud and "exciting" as you can stand. History and tatters- all vests are about to repeat themselves.

What'll You Have

You want that cool, easy look? The boys guarantee it with "garterless ankles with a waffle pattern," lightweight brogues that "look like a lot of shoes" but aren't.

You want to look like a college boy? Try the three-button, single-breasted India Whipped in India tint, with a lightweight cream oxford shirt, an eye-opening India madras tie in spectrum hues, high color argyle socks and a heavy Norwegian calf brogue. The model previously representing a smart young businessman achieved the college boy effect simply by adding to all this horn rimmed spectacles and a pipe.

You want "off-duty" attire for leisure moments? That rainbow (described as two-tone) sport jacket with dark trousers and fancy socks and shoes won't give you a quiet moment.

You want the telephone number of the pretty blonde who made the male models at their best look like something in a mail-order suit?

You can't have that. She goes back to the modeling agency after the spring show. We hope she'll be back for the fall preview. She certainly makes a male style show something to look at.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a wife open mail addressed to her husband, assuming it is her privilege since she is married to him?
2. Should one read a letter addressed to another member of the family, if it has been opened and left lying around?
3. Should a young man at camp show the letters his girl writes him to other men?
4. If you receive a gift from a husband and wife is it all right to send your thank-you note to the wife?
5. Should the reply to a formal invitation be written in black ink? What would you do if—

You write a letter to a public figure disagreeing with his or her ideas—

- (a) Sign your name to the letter?
- (b) Don't sign your name since what you have to say is not complimentary?

Answers

1. No.
2. No.
3. No.
4. Yes. Though you should mention both their names in your words of thanks.
5. Yes. Better "What Would You Do" solution—(a). Don't write any letters to which you are ashamed to sign your name.

County Council Executive Meet

New Schedule Gives Each Neighborhood Organization

The County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs held their Executive Council meeting and Board meeting January 28th at the home of Home Demonstration Agent, Mary Claude Fletcher. Officers and leaders from the following clubs were present to conduct the business for the year: Avery's Chapel, Battlefield, Bruce Chapel, Centerville, Hickory Shade, Marbrook, McCaskill, Mt. Nebo, Oakgrove, St. Paul, Shower Springs, Star.

Spring Hill, Sweet Home and Bright.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Shirley Stewart at 10:00 a. m. and the following officers were elected to take the place of officers that had resigned. Mrs. Troy Irvin, Mrs. Joe Kidd of Avery's Chapel, club assistant reporter. The 1942 County Council officers are: Mrs. Early McWilliams, President; Mrs. Troy Irvin, Vice-president; Mrs. Floyd Matthews, Secretary-Treasurer; Miss Marth Brunson, reporter and Mrs. Joe Kidd, assistant reporter; Song leader, Mrs. Ada Hardy of Hickory Shade; pianist Mrs. Annie Goad.

The District Chairman and leaders will be the women that are serving as community minutemen at the present.

The group voted to accept the new schedule that had been worked out by the Home Demonstration Agents that each neighborhood would have an organized group this year due to the tire rationing situations and that the clubs would meet according to neighborhood groups. The Home Demonstration Agents will make two and three meetings in an afternoon. That the leaders of the Home Demonstration clubs would take full responsibility this year in promoting programs and sponsor a neighborhood 4-H Club Group and call on the 4-H club groups to assist with the Food-for-Victory campaign and Scrap Iron Collection campaign over the county. County Council dues will be payable in March—50 cents per club. The County Council will meet with the Hopewell Home Demonstration club the 3rd Wednesday in March. That all Home Demonstration clubs should send in list of officers and leaders to the Home Demonstration Agent's office immediately. The month of February has been set aside as a membership drive month. Each Home Demonstration club member is urged to get a new member and to go to a meeting in February. Scrap-for-Victory is one of the programs for the year to be used as a clean up program for communities to collect up all old scrap iron, old auto bodies, tin cans, card board, papers and to sell to the nearest junk dealer that the money would be put in the Home Demonstration treasure and would go to buy defense bonds to help build the 4-H club building at Fayetteville. The Home Demonstration Club Council will continue their hands-across-the-sea program. That every family in the neighborhood will sign a pledge for Food-for-Victory and that the main program for the year would be food and nutrition sponsoring cooking schools all during the year.

During the morning Miss Fletcher, Home Demonstration Agent, and Miss Harris, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent, gave a demonstration of a one dish meal of fruit salad from home canned products and a cooked salad dressing. This lunch was served at the noon hour with coffee and tea and hot corn bread made from yellow corn meal. 26 council members were served at the noon hour.

In the afternoon the business meeting continued, plans for the year book were made and they flew the available first of March.

The executive Council Group adjourned at 3:00 p. m. to meet again in May. The County Council of Home Demonstration clubs will hold its annual meeting March 18th with the Hopewell Home Demonstration Club.

Coventry...

Coventry has become the living symbol of a free people's will to stand up to the worst the dictators can send. More than a year after the infamous Nazi attack, the great cathedral stands as a shell, piles of debris forming an aisle, two charred embers a cross.

...Carries on

But Coventry today is marching ahead toward victory. Where homes were wiped out, better homes safe from bombs have been built. Emergency shops, like those above, neat and simple, have gone up where the bombers blasted the city's business districts.

Dairy Products to Aid Program

Warns Against Selling Products, Denying Self

for large amounts of dairy products to be consumed as well as produced on Hempstead County farms, Miss Mary Claude Fletcher, county home demonstration agent, stated yesterday.

With the present high prices of dairy products, Miss Fletcher pointed out, there may be a tendency for some farm families to sell too much milk and not keep enough for home use.

In view of this situation, the importance of milk and dairy products in the diet is being reemphasized in the home demonstration program this year, Miss Fletcher said. Dairy products are rich in all the essentials of an adequate diet—calories, proteins, minerals, and vitamins—and deserve particular attention at this time when it is more important than ever that the health of everyone be brought to the highest possible level, the home demonstration agent said.

Pointing out that one reason for lack of consumption of milk on farms is the quality of the milk, Paul Carruth of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture stated that since milk with undesirable bacteria, feed odors, and bad flavor is unpalatable, extreme care should be taken to see that all milk produced is of good quality so it can be consumed on the farm and the surplus sold.

The type of milk utensils used and their care can do much to improve the quality of milk produced, the Extension dairyman stated, in urging farm families to adopt the following program to improve the quality of milk: (1) use a seamless type of milk pail with cover top; (2) Check all milk

The type of utensils used, however, Carruth stated, is not as important as the care. The following suggestions make the cleaning of milk utensils easier: (1) Rinse in cold water to remove excess milk and fat; (2) wash with scrub brush (not a rag) in hot water with alkaline washing power (not soap); (3) rinse in boiling water or chlorine solution; (4) put up to dry in a clean protected space in sunshine if possible.

Potluck Revives Homespun Foods

Can't Beat Parties Featuring Old Fashion Foods

By MRS. ALEJANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

Pot-luck suppers featuring old fashioned, homespun foods will give you a party that probably will get down to fundamentals—lots of good, cheerful, friendly conversation and possibly a song fest early in the evening.

They don't take a lot of planning and if your time is allocated to so many activities that you haven't much to spare, you'll find it comparatively easy to fit such a party into your schedule.

The cost, too, is surprisingly low for a table that sparkles with brilliant relishes—pickled beets, jellied grapefruit, salad and cranberry sauce—and fancy-looking dishes to tempt jaded palates.

Savory Beef Pot Pie:

If more convenient, start the day before and finish it at dinner time. Cut 3 pounds of any economy beef cut (chuck, neck, flank) into inch cubes. Sprinkle with flour, brown quickly in 1-3 cup chopped suet, bacon fat or lard. Add 1 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, 1 crushed bay leaf, 3 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 3 cups water. Cover tightly, simmer 2 hours.

Mix 2 cups each cooked sliced carrots and small lima beans, 1/2 cup diced cooked celery, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 teaspoon salt. Add to meat, cook slowly 10 minutes. Pour into 2 buttered baking dishes. Cover with "doughnuts" or rounds cut from rich biscuit dough. Bake 30 minutes in moderately hot oven (375). This will serve 8 or 9 guests.

Fruit Snow Pudding:

Soak 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin in 1-3 cup orange or pineapple juice for 10 minutes. Add 1 cup boiling water, stir until gelatin dissolves. Mix in cup sugar, 1-3 cup lemon juice, 2-3 cup orange juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Chill until thick and syrupy. Beat until frothy. Lightly fold in 4 beaten egg whites with 3 tablespoons sugar added. Beat until peaks form. Pour into mold lined with orange sections. Chill. Unmold, cover and surround with chilled custard sauce lemon and vanilla flavored with a little toasted coconut, or sweetened whipped cream or a thick orange-pineapple sauce.

Hamburgers on Toasted Rusks served with butter, horseradish and chili sauce are easy to do and inexpensive. Blend 1 pound ground beef, 1/2 pound each ground veal and pork or smoked ham, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 2 tablespoons each finely chopped onion, celery and parsley or green pepper, 1 egg beaten, and 2 tablespoons cream. Shape into half-inch cakes. Brown quickly in a small amount of fat. Cover and cook 10 minutes.

Plant Trees, Add to Income

Woodlands Planted Now Mean Future Incomes

An acre of trees planted now will produce the paper, bags, corrugated paper containers, cartons and wooden boxes, crates and cases to ship food and feed for the next year just as the seedlings in the woodlands of the twenties are doing today. Plant trees today for the food and feed packages tomorrow.

According to Oliver L. Adams, county agent, farmers may secure 1000 seedlings enough to plant one acre for $2.05. The farm program allows three dollars for planting one acre of trees and makes available $15.00 for each farm that cannot be received for any other farm practice. Idle acres planted during February will build up a farm forest for your home in the future.

Among the species of trees available from the Arkansas Forestry Commission from the new nursery in Nevada county are Loblolly pine, short leaf pine, black walnut, catalpa and black locust. For the best success trees should be ordered during the next two weeks and set during February.

BREWSTER SB2A

A new and formidable contribution to the navies of the United States and Great Britain from America's aircraft industry is this Brewster dive bomber, dubbed the Buccaneer by the U. S. and Bermuda by Britain. Note the power-operated gun turret, first to be installed on a two-place fighting plane.

Reactionary Union Practices Under Fire

WASHINGTON—Add to the "Things That Can't Go on as Usual" department a division of old-time trade union practices that shouldn't be permitted to go on as usual if this war is going to be won by all-out production. The idea for this one doesn't come from any reactionary conspiracy on the part of capital and management but from progressive union leadership itself. The idea is simply this:

Labor politicians today are making a big play for an increasing share of management. They base their plea on the contention that labor has just as big an interest and a lot more direct knowledge on how any given plant should be run than the mere stockholders of that company who simply shove in their excess money with the hope that it will pay dividends. If that is the case, then labor has a responsibility to prove that it can contribute something to management. Labor must therefore put an end to any of its own practices which are economic wastes, which tend to curtail production, which increase costs unnecessarily, which are mad management. Labor leadership, in other words, has assumed the responsibility of proving to management that labor can contribute as much about management as management itself.

This is no mere battle of theory. Labor leaders won't talk about it much outside of labor circles, but within the unions themselves there is a definite conflict between the younger, smarter, more progressive element and old-time organizers. These veteran local union officials still stick to policies of limiting the number of apprentices trained in any given trade, keeping the number of women in an industry at an absolute minimum because women can be hired at lower pay than men and therefore tend to keep the wage scales low opposing training—within—industry programs which tend to up-grade skilled employees and teach those skills to less skilled workers who thus become competitors for jobs, obstructing the introduction of technological advances like pre-fabricated housing which at first tend to be labor-saving, machine, and tending "make-work" practices which require the duplication of unproductive work, and so on.

Co-Operation Plans Tried.

Department of Labor recently made a study of the growth of this movement for union-management co-operation, now one of labor's principal objectives in speeding conversion of industries from civilian consumer goods to war production. The idea gained considerable headway during the Collidge boom, but most of the early experiments were ended by the depression of 1929-33, when competition for jobs was every wage earner's principal worry.

In some of the experiments, the idea of labor-management co-operation is carried to the extent of having union funds loaned to a company for expansion, the sponsoring of sales and advertising campaigns to promote the company's business, joint lobbying for legislation favorable to an industry, and co-operation to prevent bankruptcy of the employer and resulting loss of jobs for the employees.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was one of the pioneers in this labor-management co-operation policy. In 1923 in one shop, B. & O. set up a system of shop committees to eliminate wasteful production. The experiment worked, and the idea was extended to the whole system. The The Springfield, Mass., division of Westinghouse Electric adopted a similar program in 1937.

A die casting plant in Pottstown, Pa., has a production research program, jointly financed by management and labor.

Steel Workers Organizing Committee since 1937 has offered a plan of co-operation with management in plants where the union is recognized, but few establishments have accepted it. If any, millinery and clothing industries have probably advanced the idea of labor-management co-operation the farthest, culminating with the agreement of a year ago in which the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union and the New York City dress industry set up a program to increase efficiency and sales.

Cashing In

Mayor La Guardia's recent suggestion that all of labor's over-time earnings and all of industry's profits be paid for in defense savings stamps and war bonds has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. It was a good enough suggestion as one device for preventing inflation by holding back money which might otherwise be spent on civilian goods, and for providing enforced savings which might be spent beneficially during the post-war recovery period. But the idea has to be abandoned for one very practical reason. As the stamps and bonds are now issued they are convertible into cash 60 days after issuance.

A number of industries are finding that out now—in abig way. They

Annie Dun, Fixes It Up

North Carolina Gal Is Female Trouble-Shooter

FORT BRAGG, N. C.—"Miss Dun can tell you what's wrong with that truck."

To the unaccustomed ear that statement might sound funny coming from a hard-boiled army sergeant but around the quartermaster maintenance shops here you are apt to hear it 20 or 30 times a day.

For small, port Miss Annie Dun of Henderson, N. C., is the official trouble shooter of the shops. She knows trucks inside and out and can tear 'em down and put 'em back together again with the speed of a seasoned expert.

For 11 years before coming to Fort Bragg Miss Dun worked with a manufacturer of heavy trucks and picked up her amazing knowledge of truck parts by writing books and maintenance manuals.

Here, as assistant parts expert, she's responsible for keeping the right kind of parts, and enough of them, on hand at all times. And she lends a hand to the mechanics quite often.

Modest Miss Dun takes her unusual ability for granted.

"Yes, I like to work with my hands," she says, "and I don't mind getting them dirty."

"I never could do anything with gloves on."

NLRB Shimmers Down

National Labor Relations Board was six years old recently, and though NLRB used to be the biggest news in Washington, this sixth birthday and the accompanying sixth annual report received scant notice. A summary of the board's six-year record before the courts, however, is worth noticing.

The U. S. Supreme Court has enforced 26 board orders in full, enforcing six with modification, and denied only two.

In the same period, the Circuit Court of Appeals enforced 140 board orders in full, 102 with modification, and denied enforcement of 56.

Operations of the board once the most controversial of all labor subjects, are now reduced to routine procedure, of interest only in local communities where specific cases come up.
